Glen Assoun “The Grinding Pursuit to Freedom”

First I would like to apologize to Mr. Glen Assoun, there are simply too few checks and balances in our system. Stinchcombe should also have been applied to Viclas and most certainly for the 2006 appeal application. This case will change that forever.

The Dept of Justice instead of assisting in full disclosure did everything in its power to destroy, hide and conceal the truth.

Nova Scotia is a corrupt province. Rotten to the core.

The cruelty, dishonesty, corruption and continued cover-up make me want to vomit.

The RCMP, HRPD, Dept of Justice were complicit in a massive cover-up.

Those individuals in a position of power to do something failed miserably and should be ashamed of themselves and held accountable. They knew Right from Wrong but simply chose to go on the offensive and attack using every available malicious method short of assassination to attempt to discredit the messenger, me.

Even Associate Chief Justice O’Neil of the NS Family Court Division refused my subpoena to testify at “The Parliamentary Inquiry in Ottawa for the Wrongfully Accused.”citing that he would decide if and when I could testify and that his courtroom was more important.

When a Justice of the Supreme Court wilfully and knowingly breaks laws and is in contempt of the judicial procedures of our country, he puts the administration of justice into disrepute and undermines the legal foundation upon which this country is based.

The Criminal Justice System is badly broken particularly in Nova Scotia !

The oversight body “ The Judicial Council of Canada in Ottawa” is a joke and a political white wash for the judicial misconduct of judges. It should be replaced with a proactive investigative committee and judges should be closely monitored. “ They are not GOD although many think they are.”

The system is broken but that does not mean that we quit and walk away. Improvements by way of checks and balances come at a slow pace via trial and error. Let us hope the “Assoun Case” will eventually advance us towards an improved system. I am one man who wears the scars of battle over my entire body in an effort to better mankind.

A poem translated by Loren Eiseley in 1969 describes the belief that one person can make a difference.

“...A man was walking on the beach one day and noticed a boy who was reaching down, picking up starfish and throwing them into the ocean. As he approached, he called out, “Hello! What are you doing young man?” The boy looked up and said, “I’m throwing starfish into the ocean.” “Why are you doing that”? asked the man. “The tide stranded them. If I don’t throw them in the water before the sun comes up, they’ll die” came the answer. “Surely you realize that there are miles of beach, and thousands of starfish. You’ll never throw them all back, there are too many. You can’t possibly make a difference.” The boy listened politely, then picked up another starfish. As he threw it back into the sea, he said, “It did for that one.”...”

Glen Assoun was my starfish.
